D. E. O'KEEFE, EDITOR AND PROPRIETOR

Borrowed Clothes

Mr. Bryan seems to be sensitive on the question of "borrowed political clothes," and in nearly all of his speeches since his return from Europe he has accused the Republican party of borrowing from the Democratic platform in its recommendation for railroad rate legislation. The "peerless leader" of the Democratic party need not worry about this matter. It is true that the Democratic national platform had a plank demanding more stringent rate legislation, but if Mr. Bryan will remember, President Roosevelt's first recommendation on this subject was in his first annual message to Congress in 1901, and has been in all his messages since that date.

But President Roosevelt made no claim to originality in this recommendation, any more than he gave credit to the Democratic party and for patent right on it. The president simply followed in the Republican pathway that has been a highway of rate legislation for twenty years past. The original act created the Interstate Commerce Commission was passed by a Republican Congress nearly twenty years ago, and there has not been a Republican Congress since that time which has not amended the act to make it more effective.

Railway rate regulation is a policy of the United States government and will be as long as the Republican party controls the government. It is simply a development of the old Republican policy that this is a nation and not simply a federation of states; that the Federal government has the power to control and regulate interstate commerce, as it has to improve waterways and construct public works. When Mr. Bryan goes back into the history of these questions he will find that until quite recently his party, if the Democratic party is his party, has protested that the Federal government had no power to do those things and that the Republican party has not only claimed that the government had such power, but by legislation it has given the power to the Executive to enforce this policy. All the railroad rate legislation now on the statute books was placed there under Republican administrations when the Republican party had a majority in Congress and assumed full responsibility for legislation.

Mr. Bryan may not be conscious of the fact, but in all his preaching on the railroad question, prior to the last year, the clothes he thought were made to his measure were simply appropriated out of the Republican wardrobe.

Corporations that are handled honestly and fairly, so far from being an evil, are a natural business evolution and make for the general prosperity of our land. We do not wish to destroy corporations, but we wish to make them subservient to the public good.—President Roosevelt.

Gillett for Governor.

James N. Gillett, the Republican nominee for governor, is a gentleman possessing the highest attainments, is able, honest and fearless in the discharge of his duties. He comes from the plain people, having by perseverance and industry arose from a common laborer to Congress, and he no doubt will be the next governor of California. He is worthy of every voters support and has all the qualifications to make an excellent chief executive. Mr. Gillett is a strong man mentally and physically, capable of making a strenuous campaign which he will inaugurate early next week. He stands for principals and for no new fangled ideas. He stands upon a strong Republican platform whose principles are giving the country the best and most prosperous government in the world. With such a man and such a platform the result of the election is certain. His majority will be from 40,000 to 50,000 votes.

Henshaw and Kerrigan for Judges.

There are two judges of the Republican ticket that the people of this county would like to see elected. They are Judge Henshaw who is a candidate for associate justice of the Supreme Court and who resides near Fair Oaks and the other is Judge Frank Kerrigan who spent his boyhood in this county. He aspires to be one of the judges of the court of appeals. Both are able jurists, honest and fair in decisions. They have held judicial positions for years and have shown their fitness for the bench. This county will give them large pluralities.

Republican County Convention.

The Republican county convention meets today at San Mateo to name a ticket. There are many aspirants for office but from among them the convention will select strong candidates worthy of the support of the voters of the county and

The Pope street bridge proposition will come before the county supervisor at the meeting next Monday on a report from the special committee, including Supervisors Mitchell, of Santa Clara county and MacBain of San Mateo county, to whom the matter was referred some time ago for a recommendation. The committee will report in favor of immediate action and it is understood that the board will ask for bids at once.

J. S. Cone, of the Co-operative Land and Trust company, to whom has been assigned the duty of collecting the subscriptions for bridge purposes from the signers of the board of trade petition, has had little or no trouble in securing the amounts subscribed. He has to the credit of the fund about $800, with only $200 or $300 still outstanding.

This money will be placed in the hands of Supervisor Mitchell before the meeting of the board on Monday, and will be used by him as an argument in favor of the immediate construction of the bridge, as showing that the citizens of Palo Alto have taken a lively personal interest in the project.

These subscriptions represent the amount which the supervisors insist shall be contributed to the fund by the people interested in the construction of the new bridge. The subscribers include the local real estate firms, the owners of property in the district across the creek, which will be benefited by the new structure, and a number of local merchants and professional men.

The plans call for a structure which will cost about $4200, the expense to be divided among the two counties, the city of Palo Alto and the interested property owners.

The bridge is to be built over the San Francisco creek near the end of University avenue and will open up the handsome residence district on the other side of the stream which is now known as North Palo Alto.—Palo Alto Times.

Property owners should get busy and repair their sidewalks before the rainy season sets in.

Midshipman Gearing and Midshipman Stevenson are classmates and came out from Annapolis a few weeks ago to spend a month with their parents on this coast. They are both members of the class which will graduate from the Naval Academy February next.

In the discourses delivered by the clergy of the Church of the Nativity last Sunday, mention was made of the church regulation that prohibits christian burial to Catholics who have failed to observe the laws of the church. It is the intention of the church authorities, henceforth to insist on strict observance of the rules regarding christian burial. According to these rules the Catholics of Menlo Park must in future tread the narrow path, otherwise they cannot hope that their bones will ever rest in consecrated ground.

MARK EMERSON

Biography of San Mateo County's Pioneer Physician.

The following biography of the late Dr. Mark Emerson appears in the History of the Coast Counties of California:

Dr. Mark Emerson—One of the old and prominent residents of the coast, well known through his ministrations to the public, is Dr. Mark Emerson, born in Lake County, Cal. in 1831, the son of Mark Emerson, a native of Massachusetts, who emigrated with his father to Ohio in the early days of the settlement of that state.

Throughout his life he was a farmer. His mother of his children was in maidenhood Miss Mary Baker, who was born in Maine. The only one of their children who is now living is Dr. Mark Emerson, of Halfmoon Bay, Cal. After completing his education in the common schools of Ohio he attended a medical college, taking his degree at Cleveland, and going into Crawford county, Pa., where he practiced his profession for three years. In the spring of 1856 he came to California, from New York to Panama on board the George Law, the ship that was afterward lost at sea, continuing his journey to the Pacific coast on the ship Golden Age. While en route between Aspinwall and Panama, the train was derailed in making a curve, caused by water overflowing the track and nine cars were wrecked and two hundred people killed and injured. Dr. Emerson was fortunate in escaping with several bruises only. On his arrival at San Francisco he went at once to Nevada county, where he engaged in the practice of medicine and also engaged in mining for four years. Subsequently locating at Folsom City, he gave his undivided attention to medicine, building up a successful practice, but leaving it at length for what he considered a better opportunity, the sudden growth of Virginia City, Nev., opening up another avenue for his talents. He remained in the last named city for eight years, his success proving credit to his judgment. In 1868 he returned to California, settling in San Gregorio, San Mateo county, passing thirty-four years in this location, practicing up and down the coast, and then removing to Halfmoon Bay, where he was living at the time of his death. The wife who shared his prosperity was formerly Miss Sarah A. Wilson, a native daughter of the Golden state. Dr. Emerson had also become interested in farming and timber lands along the Barbary coast, and was a stock holder and director in the San Mateo County Bank of Redwood City. He was examining physician for several well known life insurance companies doing business along the coast. Dr. Emerson stood high in the community, being a Republican in politics, and fraternally was associated with Haywood lodge, No. 226, F. and A. M. An interesting event in the life of Dr. Emerson was his enlistment in the Nevada Volunteer Cavalry in 1864 under Captain Baldwin, but the regiment was discharged at Ft. Churchill before going into active service.

WOODSIDE CHIPS.

Joe Ahern the well known plumber of San Francisco came up for the dance last Saturday evening with his friend Wm. Maloney of Menlo. Joe is in business for himself now and reports all kinds of prosperity.

The family of A. W. Jackson have gone to the metropolis for the winter. Mr. Jackson expects to be able to occupy his home next summer if the contractors have it completed.

The first rain of the season fell last Sunday. Enough did not fall to do any damage but the dust was settled in good shape and the atmosphere purified once more.

The old adobe which was shaken down by the quake is being removed and the wooden buildings of the place are being renovated by the owner Mrs. O'Brien.

Miss Annie Earley, a charming young belle of Woodside, left last Monday for a month's sojourn at Santa Cruz.

Miss Freda Meyer of San Francisco was the guest of her folks the first of the week.

A new church was inaugurated at the Baptist church last Sunday in the form of a brand new choir. It is a choir of girls, who are being drilled in singing. They will sing choruses and solos at the service which begins at 2:30 p. m.

Culmination of a Romance

A petty romance was brought to a happy culmination yesterday, when Russell C. Smoot and Mrs. Bertha A. Starbuck both of San Mateo, were joined in wedlock by Superior Judge Buck. They were sweethearts in childhood in their old Virginia home, but were separated, and she became the bride of another man. Smoot came west and eventually became a successful merchant of that city.

About two years ago Mrs. Starbuck, then a widow, also left her Virginia home to reside in San Mateo. The couple met again and in time the friendship of their childhood ripened into the affection upon which the law has just put the seal.

Submitted on Briefs

The case of Geo. C. Walsh against Mary C. Gillespie and John P. Gillespie was tried before Judge Hosmer of San Francisco sitting in place of Judge Buck. The plaintiff seeks to establish a resulting trust in a third of the of the fifteen acres of land in the Casserly tract near the Catholic seminary. He claims that he authorized Mrs. Gillespie to buy the land for him, but the evidence of the defendants so to the effect that he never paid the money as agreed, which offsets his theory and hence plaintiff has now no interest in the land in question. The law involved in the matter will be submitted on briefs. Frank Shay and Judge Fitzpatrick represent the plaintiff and W. W. Davidson and Jas. T. O'Keefe the defendants.

A Church Wedding

Miss Kate Botto, youngest daughter of Mrs. Angela Botto of this city, was united in marriage to Chas. A. Agrotti last Wednesday in Mount Carmel church, Rev. Father White officiating. On returning from the honeymoon trip Mr. and Mrs. Agrotti will reside in the city.

CITY COUNCIL.

The city council held a short session
Monday night at which the proposition to improve Roosevelt avenue was again under consideration. Messrs.

Hassler, Gillespie and Elliot, representing the residents of that part of town were present to urge action toward having the work done, but the council was still unable to find a way out of the dilemma. According to law it would be illegal to contract
for work that cannot be paid for out of the funds provided for that year.

In other words the city's books must balance at the end of June and claims that are unpaid at that time
are in great danger of remaining unpaid should any taxpayer choose to take the trouble to invoke the law.

With this obstacle before it the council, however, willing could not see its way clear to incur any new indebtedness beyond the street contracts now under way and it is understood that those are far in excess of the revenue for this fiscal year.

Arnold Hess has a bid before the board to grade and macadamize Roosevelt avenue for $3000. Mr. Goodwin, who recently purchased the Schroeder
place, has offered to contribute $1000 toward having the work done,
but despite this liberal offer the council is still unable to proceed. Mr. Hess consented to allow his bid to remain
in effect for one more week and before next Monday another effort will be made to have the work done.

The Native Daughters sent a communication to the board asking permission to erect a tent on Main st., between Stambaugh and Phelps, for the purpose of holding a dance. Clerk Stafford explained that since writing
the letter the ladies had concluded to have their dance in Germania hall.
The communication was accepted and
filed.

Mr. Pitzinger, the owner of the building on Main street, stated that the street sweeper had collided with one of the supports of his awning, causing a portion of it to fall. He had a claim of $7.40 against the city for the damage. His statement was disputed by Mr. Hynding and the street superintendent.

Street superintendent Dickey stated
that as the work of laying the water mains in Wellesley Park was about to commence it would be necessary
to designate where it should be laid with reference to the curb line. The matter was passed over to the street
committee who will act in conjunction with the owners of the park.
